The Capitol Market in Downtown Charleston has officially been added to the National Register of Historic Places, a designation that highlights its rich past and promising future. Originally built as the Kanawha & Michigan Railway Depot in the early 1900s, the market now stands as a vibrant community hub. Executive Director Evan Osborn says the recognition not only honors the site's history but also opens doors for future growth, new visitors, and grant opportunities. Curious about how a historic train depot became one of Charleston's most beloved gathering spots? Read the full story to discover the journey of Capitol Market and what this new designation means for its future. Story at wvmetronews.com

TOP 8 WITH EMILY

WTSQ's own Emily is back with a brand-new Top 8, and this time it's extra special—because it's still Pride, and they're celebrating with a playlist full of queer joy, nostalgia, and vibes that hit just right.

From the deeply personal reflections inspired by Andrew Adkins' "Be Still" to the catchy indie rhythms of Las Ligas Menores and the dreamy sounds of Sea Lemon, Emily's picks span genres, borders, and emotional wavelengths. This week's list includes music videos and some classic throwback vibes, plus a few bonus tracks from queer icons like Ezra Furman and SOPHIE. It's not just a playlist—it's a love letter to music, memory, and identity. Check out the full Top 8 now at wtsq.org and discover your next favorite song.
